COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

In cooperation with Rumford and Gilead we purchased a carload or Calcium Chloride for use on the roads. A part of this has been already applied to the piece of road just beyond Mr. Graves' residence on the West Bethel Flat road, a little over one mile in length to the four corners. You may be interested in watching this strip of road, as we hope the Calcium will not only keep the dust down, but will help stabilize the road and lessen the amount of "potholes and washboard." The cost is of course far less than tar and is being used throughout the state more and more each year on those roads with a small amount of traffic.

I feel that the people should know that as representatives of the Town of Bethel, Mrs. Rozelle and I were accorded every possible courtesy during the Gould Commencement. On behalf of the town and ourselves we extend to the Trustees, Faculty and Alumni Association our heartfelt thanks. Truly there are many reasons for the close cooperation of Bethel and Gould. Where in New England or even in the United States could a preparatory school find a more beautiful setting than Gould enjoys in this town? And on the other hand are the young people in very many other towns of New England offered the excellent privilege of education that Bethel children have a record of three undefeated seasons and but one season under .500 percentage.

The Week in Oxford County

Maintenance work is being done to sections of road on Route 2 between Dixfield and Bethel.

Class of 1904, Norway High School held a banquet at the Universalist Church Friday evening.

Three Rumford boys, Bobby Bassa, Pine St., Brent Rinaldi, Hancock St., and Teddy Bushie, Cumberland St., became lost Monday while on a fishing trip in the Bear Brook section. They were found by searchers early Tuesday morning. The trio realized they were confused, lit a fire, cooked their fish, and went to sleep to wait.

Dr. Delbert M. Stewart of South Paris, a veteran of 50 years service, was among physicians honored at a dinner of the Maine Medical Association in Rockland.

GOULD GRADUATE RECEIVES AMHERST COLLEGE DEGREE

Charles M. Smith of Bethel received the degree of Bachelor of Arts June 13 at the 133rd Amherst College Commencement. A graduate of Gould Academy, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund C. Smith residing at Wydeare Farm.

At Amherst, Smith majored in Biology and received his degree Cum Laude. He was a Dean's List student for his last three semesters.

In extra-curricular activities, Smith played freshman baseball and was a member of the Lacrosse team his junior and senior years, receiving a letter this last year. He is an affiliate of Chi Psi fraternity, serving as treasurer and president in his junior and senior years respectively; Smith also represented his fraternity on the Fraternity Business Management committee, acting as Co-chairman of the Executive committee.

GOULD ALUMNUS NOW OUT

The 1954 issue of the Gould Alumnus went on sale Saturday morning preceding the annual meeting of the Gould Academy Alumni Association. Issued at five year intervals this 72 page book brings news of Gould alumini up to May of this year. The items were accumulated through questionnaires sent out last winter, by contribution of interesting facts by friends, and from news articles pertaining to alumini.

Besides the usual reports of the faculty, athletic records and Alumini Association highlights, this issue features a listing of several families represented through four or more generations in the old school. These interesting articles and the listing of some 2000 names make the book one of greatest interest to all who are interested in Gould. The work is a credit to the Alumni Secretary, Miss Eva Bean, from whom copies may be obtained.

RUMFORD HOBOES DOWN BETHEL 3-1 IN PTL CONTEST

The Rumford Hoboes emerged with a 3-1 victory over the Bethel A. C. in a Pine Tree League contest played at Thurston Field Wednesday evening.

Dale Welch and John Kezal each collected two safe bobs for the Hoboes while Bob Croteau garnered three hits including a home run and a double for the Bethel nine. Ronnie Baker secured a pair of singles and Duke Boyd singled for the only other A. C. hits.

On the mound for Rumford was Shea a left-hander, who bore down and pitched well with runners on. Guy Parker pitched good ball for the losers but to no avail as his mates could push across but one.

TEACHERS' COLLEGE HONORS MISS CARRIE WIGHT

Miss Carrie M. Wight, Gould 1902, received a citation for meritorious service to the youth of Maine at the commencement exercises of the Washington State Teachers' College at Machias on June 11.

Miss Wight had 37 years of varied experience in education, beginning as a teacher in the elementary grades. For nine years she was director of the training school at Washington State Teachers' College. From 1920 to 1931, she taught the teacher training course at Gould Academy. The last ten years before retirement she was superintendent of schools in the Bethel, Newry, Upton, Greenwood, Gilford Union.

The citation reads as follows:

"We recognize Miss Carrie Mae Wight, educator and friend of youth. For her contributions to the lives of children—directly as an elementary and secondary classroom teacher, and indirectly as trainer and friendly counselor of normal school students now serving youth as parents and teachers, we honor her here. On this campus we served so loyally and wholeheartedly that our school was part of her and she a part of all her students. For her professional spirit, always, for her activity in community forces for good, for her deep sense of the beauty of friendship and the dignity of life, we honor this daughter of Maine, Carrie M. Wight."

Gould's Commencement Attracts Record Crowds--68 Have Diplomas

The largest number of parents, alumni, and friends of the Academy ever to assemble for a Gould Commencement attended the various activities of the past week end.

Class Day which was held on Friday featured a press interview of various members of the senior class conducted by Press Agent, Richard Onofrio, '54. The interview brought forth the activities of the school in which the individuals had participated and revealed their plans for the future. The backdrop on the stage, which was a replica of Hanscom Hall, was designed and painted by Beverly Onofrio.

The citation reads as follows:

"We recognize Miss Carrie Mae Wight, educator and friend of youth. For her contributions to the lives of children—directly as an elementary and secondary classroom teacher, and indirectly as

Alumni Day

On Saturday, Alumni Day, the annual meeting of the Alumni Association was conducted in Hanscom Hall. This was followed by the Alumni Luncheon in William Bingham Gym at 12:30 with a capacity crowd of alumni present.

President of the Alumni Association, Mrs. Roland Kneeland, presided and introduced Dr. Arthur L. Walters who brought greetings of the Board of Trustees, Paul Fossett, President of the Class of 1954, expressed thanks to the Alumni on behalf of his class for the fine luncheon which they enjoyed. He stated that the Class of 1954 was pleased to join the rank of the Alumni Association and would cooperate in every respect to the achievement of its goals.

Group singing was under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bean, Class of 1929. Mrs. Bean and a group of male voices composed of Stanley Davis, Richard Emery Flint, Frank Flint and Donald Flint rendered vocal selections which were much enjoyed.

Dr. John Nicol Marie of Arlington, Mass., proved to be an exceedingly witty and thought provoking speaker. He spoke on the subject "What Is Right With The World."

A gift of binoculars was presented to Clayton Fossett by McIreland, in behalf of the alumni students, trustees and faculty, in honor of 30 years of teaching at Gould.

Full credit was given Miss Eva Bean who did such a fine job on the Gould Alumnus.

Two members from the class of 1904 attended the banquet: Agnes Barton Haskell, Ada Dyer Dickens, Alumni Officers.

President, Harold Bennett; Vice-President, Richard Bryant; Secretary, Eva Bean; Treasurer, Colla Gorman; Auditor, Wilbur Myers; Representative to Athletic Council, Richard Davis.

Three Great Cannots

What our children of today are taught will determine the way of life this nation will have in the years ahead. Nothing, therefore, could be more important to the future welfare of the people of America than the substance of the education that will be given to the 2,000,000 youngsters who will enroll in our schools next September. A sound observation regarding one phase of this education has been made by Mark G. Schinnerer, superintendent of the Cleveland (Ohio) schools.

John W. Studebaker, chairman of the Scholastic Magazine's editorial board and former U.S. Commissioner of Education, commended Dr. Schinnerer's statement and I hope it will be read by all parents and teachers, by everybody. "This is about the teaching of economics," Dr. Schinnerer wrote. "It is not directed just to teachers of economics, but to all teachers. It is directed to all teachers because the job that needs to be done cannot be done by just the teachers of economics."

* * * We Have Failed *

"There is a colossal oversupply of people in my country who either never discovered some of the basic principles of economics or think that the economic laws have been repealed. We hear much talk that the schools have failed in this regard and the cry is for required courses in economics. We have failed—in school and outside this answer is not in required courses."

"The answer, in my opinion, lies in a conscious effort to inculcate in children, from the kindergarten through high school, some basic and very simple facts. There are three things which almost anyone can be brought to understand and if these three are ingrained, we can leave the more complicated principles to the experts."

Nothing for Nothing

"No 1: You can't get something for nothing. Too many think they can. That is the basis of gambling and most speculation. Giving higher mark in school than is deserved is proving that the student can get something for nothing. That is bad business. When parents urge no homework, they somehow expect something for nothing. One gets into it. Only parasites get something for nothing."

"No 2: You can't spend more than you have and remain solvent. The longer such a system is followed, the more impossible it becomes to keep ahead. None, anyone who trades in a mortgaged car or a house and has both a newer car and a bigger mortgage? The woods are full of such people. It is bad economics. It is summed like drug addiction. This applies equally to a person, a business, or a government."

Can't Equalize Ability

"No 3: You cannot equate ability by a ranking system. It is wrong to expect as much from a youngster with a low IQ as is expected from a youngster with a high IQ. It is also wrong to set up standards so that fifty states can never agree that for the sake of the equal rights of the various states there should be a place to America where grades and I don't work in any other way."

"In every school day, there are numerous incidents in each school a minor experience where these fundamentals are present. Just especially bringing them to the people's consciousness and most wonder. If all our people accepted these three economic axioms and lived by them we would live in an economic paradise."

As I have written these down, it seems to me that Dr. Schinnerer's three fundamentals are based on which we all need to be educated—especially to a world in which glowering pretenses of something for nothing are being made by the Soviets and Communists and their allies. It is good to see these fundamentals proposed by one of America's top public school educators.

DALE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

CHARLES WILLIAM JACKSON, Anaheim, California, says he once worked for a Road Improvement company owned by two brothers in a small central Illinois town. It was a prospering company and the two brothers were quite wealthy. The youngest brother's name was Hal and the older was George.

Hal was a nervous type. Always on the go, never seemed to relax. Everything was business with Hal, and it all had to be just so or he would be running around like a chicken with his head cut off.

George, the older one, was different. He never got excited, was never in a hurry. He would walk around in an old pair of overalls with a chew of tobacco in his mouth, not seeming to care whether or not the sun set.

About twice a year Hal would get in such a frenzy he would take a two week trip to the Mayo Brothers Clinic in Minnesota for a rest. It puzzled Charles Jackson why Hal would have to go for a rest while George always seemed to be the same year after year.

One day, as Hal was preparing to leave for the Clinic, Charles said to George, "George why is it that Hal takes these trips to the Clinic all the time? I never see you going up there." Said George, "I'll tell you, Hal has always been worrier, right to bed with him and fights with them all night long. But I try a different way. At night before I go to bed I walk through the kitchen and leave my troubles right on the kitchen table, then in the morning when I get up I come out and pick them up again with a fresh and clear mind."

And that is why a man five years older than his brother looks and acts five years younger.

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems. Inseparable From Local Welfare

"We must have a strong and favorable majority in congress if we are to complete the job we began together in Alsip two years ago," wrote the President, in letter to the national citizens for Eisenhower congressional committee. He also observed that "the challenge is tremendous."

That the Republican leadership is very deeply concerned with the coming elections goes without saying. Their control of Congress is tantamount to an extreme. And, while the President personally won with ease in 1952, that was not the case for the Republican candidates as a group.

An exhaustive study has been made of the '48 and '52 elections by the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan, and its findings are described in the June 4 issue of U.S. News and World Report. The big point it makes is that Mr. Stevenson won because great numbers of registered Democrats voted for him. In other words, if the Democrats who voted for Mr. Truman four years before had stuck with the party, Mr. Stevenson would now be occupying the White House.

Party allegiance was a small factor in '52—only eight per cent of the Ike voters quoted gave it as a reason for their choice. The important elements were such matters as domestic issues, foreign policy, the candidate's personality, and the "time for a change" feeling.

With a few exceptions, the Eisenhower swing strongly affected all classifications of voters. Here are some of the examples cited by the survey (the difference between these percentages and 100 per cent principally accounted for by non-voters). In '48, young people

Personalities should be made in heaven, and a lot of them are. But the honeymoon doesn't last. It's not supposed to, either, and I don't think folks should keep kidding themselves for years on end.

In some cases the honeymoon is ended when the husband no longer gets his morning coffee in bed. It's only a memory when hubby "forgets" to open the car door for his "bride" before getting under the steering wheel. And, when Ma and Pa engage in a verbal difference of opinion about what's best for one of their offspring—face it, friends, you've had it.

Personally, I wouldn't want to endure a honeymoon that lasted for 50 years. I was very happy the day the little woman and I stopped trying to impress each other with our intelligence and wit, courtly manners, and, let's face it, "put-on."

When we began to act our normal selves, we found a comfortable feeling we expect to share during years of wedded bliss, an "at home" feeling no one ever enjoyed on a honeymoon.

Mariages should be made in heaven, and a lot of them are. But the honeymoon doesn't last. It's not supposed to, either, and I don't think folks should keep kidding themselves for years on end.

In some cases the honeymoon is ended when the husband no longer gets his morning coffee in bed. It's only a memory when hubby "forgets" to open the car door for his "bride" before getting under the steering wheel. And, when Ma and Pa engage in a verbal difference of opinion about what's best for one of their offspring—face it, friends, you've had it.

Personally, I wouldn't want to endure a honeymoon that lasted for 50 years. I was very happy the day the little woman and I stopped trying to impress each other with our intelligence and wit, courtly manners, and, let's face it, "put-on."

When we began to act our normal selves, we found a comfortable feeling we expect to share during years of wedded bliss, an "at home" feeling no one ever enjoyed on a honeymoon.

Mariages should be made in heaven, and a lot of them are. But the honeymoon doesn't last. It's not supposed to, either, and I don't think folks should keep kidding themselves for years on end.

It's only a memory when hubby "forgets" to open the car door for his "bride" before getting under the steering wheel. G. A. '24 ENTERTAINED ON THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Chapman entertained members of the class of 1924, of Gould Academy at luncheon Saturday afternoon. This was the 30th anniversary of their graduation. A business meeting was held and it was voted that the group meet for a reunion every year. Present were Edward Carlson, Gorham; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Maxson, Pite, N.Y.; Mrs. Genie Saunders Linsscott, Honolulu, T.H.; Miss Edna Heath, Dixfield; Mrs. Leola Shorday, Bar Mills; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Stearns, Albany; Mrs. Bessie Bean Hollis, Waltham, Mass.; Mrs. Elsie Flint Hewey, South Portland; and Mr. and Mrs. Chapman.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Leola Heath, Dixfield, Maine: I remember doing janitor work and shoveling snow while teaching about 60 grade pupils for $35 a month. My family was delighted. My sister had done the same thing before me for $25 a month and my father before her had received 50 cents a day and "boarded round."

I remember with joy the horse-propelled merry-go-round where you rode with your "sweetie" for 15 minutes for 5¢ a ride. The owner of said "amusement" would wear cotton whiskers and Santa Claus suits, to the rural children's delight. How wonderful it was to have Santa call one by name! I also remember with sorrow how those whiskers caught fire from tree candles of his daughter's first job as "teacher"; the merry-go-round and our Santa were no more. The church served lunches and ice cream at the Fourth of July picnics for 5¢ for each article and many a swain ate and said, "Lieck-a-reed, Sal, buy yourself some."

"...at we say now."

Funerals were from the homes and the neighbors dug and lined the graves, often making the coffin from trees cut on their homesteads. The burial might be in the church yard or it might be on the home place, with a fence put about the grave to keep the cattle off.

There was no telephone in the house, so the neighbors would come to the door and say, "Hello, we're coming to see you."

The Alumni versus Gould baseball game was played on Alumni Field following the banquet with the school boys emerging victorious by a score of 27. Many of the guests of the Academy enjoyed tea and coffee at the Headmaster's House from 4 to 6:30.

The final event on Saturday was the Commencement Ball at 8 p.m. The gym was attractively decorated in a seashore motif. The decorations included a lighthouse as a centerpiece in the gym with fisherman's nets, seashells, seagulls, starfish, lobsters, clams, etc. distributed as wall and overhead decorations. A large crowd danced to the music of Jimmie Hansen and his orchestra of Portland.

The Inauguration Exercises were held in the West Parish Congregational Church on Sunday morning. A prelude of organ music was presented by Walter Marcus, Gould director of music. The Rev. Carl S. Welst, retired New York clergymen now serving as minister in the Lovell Church, delivered the sermon "What It Is To Live."

Commencement.

The final event was the Commencement Program in William Bingham Gym on Sunday afternoon. Gail Waldron, honor student, gave the invocation which was followed by words of welcome by Paul Peacock, Salutatorian and Class President. The Freshman-Sophomore Girls' Glee Club sang the selection "Gribribib" accompanied by Carla Grover. Richard Onofrio, honor student, introduced Frank Flint who delivered an honor essay on the subject of "Promiscuity." The Junior-Senior Girls' Glee Club then rendered a special arrangement of a spiritual "Wonder Where Is Good Old Dan." Accompanied by Frank Flint. The Valedictory address on the subject of "Public Opinion" was given by Mary Anne Myers. The final musical selection featured Showboat Medley by Jerome Kern and Frank Flint as accompanist. The guest speaker was Dr. Erwin D. Canham, Editor of The Christian Science Monitor, who reviewed world conditions today in a scholarly address. "The Chance For Peace," Headmaster Elwood F. Ireland announced the honors of students who have maintained the highest scholastic averages for their class during the present year as follows:
